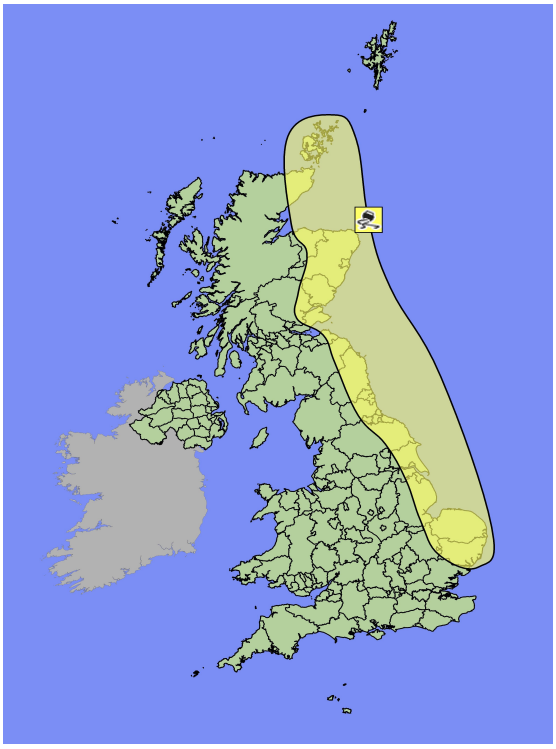
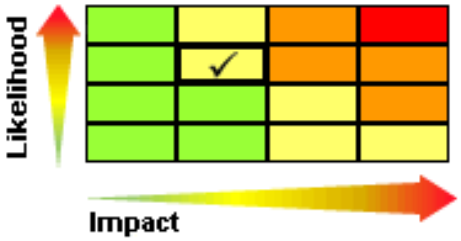
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Another very cold night with locally severe frost and a continuing chance of light showers feeding inland off the sea. Any snow flurries will be very light but could give a dusting of snow in places which will increase the risk of icy stretches on untreated surfaces.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Ice

Valid from 00:05 on Thu, 24th Jan 2013 until 11:00 on Thu, 24th Jan 2013

As temperatures fall on Wednesday night, icy stretches will again form on many untreated surfaces especially where lying snow refreezes. There may also be a few light snow flurries in places though any new accumulations will be slight. Freezing fog patches may also add to travel difficulties.
The public are advised to take extra care.
